THE TRANSPARENCY TASK FORCE

Transparency Task Force appoints Capita's Bobby Riddaway as Ambassador

LONDON, June 10th, 2019:

Bobby Riddaway, Senior Investment Consultant at Capita Employee Solutions, has been appointed as Ambassador of the Transparency Task Force, the collaborative, campaigning community, dedicated to driving up the levels of transparency in financial services around the world.

The Transparency Task Force believe that higher levels of transparency are a prerequisite for fairer, safer, more stable and more efficient markets that deliver better value for money and better outcomes to consumers.

Bobby Riddaway commented:

“I was delighted to be invited to be an Ambassador for the Transparency Task Force. This has come at a time when the Investment Consulting industry is just about to receive the final CMA orders and the Transparency Task Force is helping to rebuild trust in financial services. I have always been a supporter of clear and concise fee models when delivering advice to clients and support the efforts to show how that advice benefits pension schemes, which is integral in any trusting relationship in institutional investment.

In my role as an Ambassador I will not be focussing solely on my area of the industry but will be an active participant in any area where my input can add value.”

Andy Agathangelou, Founder of the Transparency Task Force added:

“It is becoming increasingly clear that there is a very strong correlation between transparency, truthfulness and trustworthiness

“It is great that Bobby has become an Ambassador because the investment consulting and fiduciary management sectors are going through a period of significant change and it needs authentic, client-centric champions of transparency to help it change and evolve in the right way. Bobby fits the bill perfectly – he has earned a first class reputation over many years for speaking his mind on the positive changes needed to help ensure pension scheme members get the best outcomes they can.”
